ROCK CO. STAYS 75,999 ATTEND BIG UP NEAR TOP FAIR ON THURSDAY

Judging Completed at the State Fair—Sweepstakes in Sight.

By LEWIS C. FLENUCK

State Fair Grounds, Milwaukee, Wis.—Judging of livestock was completed Friday at the Wisconsin state fair and the county sweepstakes contest will be determined by Tom Cunniff of Milwaukee. Rock county was still leading over Waukesha Thursday night with incomplete returns. If Rock county wins it will be the third time in four years that it has won the championship. The sweepstakes was taken by Waukesha last year.

W. G. Miles, Evansville, and A. Broughton, Albany, scored heavily in the sheep classes. Broughton, of Albany, won the championship in the sheep class, while Miles, of Albany, won the championship in the goat class. Waukesha won the championship in the cow class, while Rock county won the championship in the pig class.

Because of technical ruling that a three year old cow was needed to complete the herd, Rock was unable to enter the county sweepstakes. Jefferson won the county sweepstakes with a Waukesha second, Walworth third, and Waupaca and Milwaukee counties finishing in order.

Grant county was first for the county horse display. Jefferson was 15th and Rock 14th.

On Guernseys, top honors among herds was taken by the Cornum Farms, D. E. Tenney, owner. The Rock county Guernsey bull finished fourth. The Cornum Farm entry, "Superba Edgemore," which defeated "May King's Duke" of Waukesha at the Janesville fair, was given first position.

Will Go to Fond du Lac

It has been decided to take the county herds to the Fond du Lac fair, and it is expected a carload of top animals will be taken to the National Dairy Congress at Waterloo, Ia.

Clydesdale horses owned by John C. Brothers, of Evansville, won top championships in the judging Thursday. The senior yearling stallion, Arrington's Jewel, of the Moore Bros. farm, won his class, and was made junior champion and then was good for the grand championship ribbons. J. C. Robinson had but one entry, "Fairy Foot," placing first two year old class and repeating for junior champion and then being made grand champion mare of the year old stallions. On the other hand, "Samuels Jewel," placed third, with "Jewel Knight," and in addition to taking the championship put a second in the two year old class. "Viola," scored second as a mare, "Blair Lassie," first, and "Samuels Jewel," fourth in the four year old class. "Precious Jewel" was second, "Radiant Lass," fifth, in the two year old class, and "Blair Lady" third in the senior yearling.

There was a good show of Clydes, the other exhibitors being A. G. Sodergren, Basco, Ill.; Ethel-Wold Farms, Mondovi, Wis.; and E. A. Jones, Bangor.

U. S. IS AMUSEMENT MAD, SAYS BISHOP

La Crosse.—Bishop Charles Bayard Mitchell, presiding at the West Wisconsin Methodist conference here, denounced the amusement loving attitude of today.

"America is going amusement mad and is neglecting the church," he said. "Women are chiefly concerned with bobbed hair and paint. The morals in our high schools and colleges are lower than ever before."

Bishop Mitchell, who recently returned from a tour of the world, upholding the Centenary as being one of the greatest movements in Christianity, berated the "splendid isolation" policy of the American people, and deplored the attitude of the modern generation towards the church and the more serious things of life.

This conference went unofficially on record as opposed to the education of women into the ministry.

Big Bones

"None, you can't take dogs into the museum."

"Why not?"

"Too many skeletons of mastodons and such like. The bones excite the dogs."

Better Outlook in Potato Market

Madison — A better outlook confronts potato growers of Wisconsin as the year 1923-24 shipping season opens, the state department of markets reports in its bi-monthly market bulletin issued today.

"With a greatly reduced production forecast for both Wisconsin and the United States the season starts out on a more favorable basis than last year from the standpoint of the good market," the bulletin declares. "All factors in the deal are hoping for a good price this year as all feel that both the farmers and shippers are entitled to good profits in order to help make up for the losses generally sustained during the past three seasons."

The general condition of the crop at Wisconsin is good. Those shipping early stock are receiving good prices, Wisconsin U. S. No. 1 bulk stock in Chicago bringing $2.25 per hundred-weight.

The marketing department reports that grading regulations are again to be enforced regarding potatoes.

Wisconsin producers and dealers have found by experience that it pays to grade and properly mark farm products," the bulletin declares. "This is largely the result of four years work by the department, the work originally starting on potatoes."

"The enforcement of grading rules, will be continued this fall. During the marketing season potatoes, cabbage, and apple grades will be strictly enforced. Grading supervisors will be in the field to assist growers and shippers in their grading activities and to advise how products should properly be marked."

CUNO HEADS OCEAN LINE

London.—Former Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno has been appointed president of the council of Hamburg-American line, says a Central News dispatch.

Hamburg.—Dr. Wilhelm Cuno plans to sail to the United States soon to consult with W. A. Harriman, head of the United States lines. Cuno formerly was general manager of the Hamburg-American lines.

REWARD COMMISSIONER

London — Great Britain rewards with a liberal hand her public servants. Sir Percy Cox, who has relinquished his post of high commissioner for Mesopotamia, is to receive $25,000 as a gratuity from the government "in recognition of distinguished services" as an administrator in Iraq, which Britain has now turned over to the native Arabs.

ANOTHER SHORTAGE OF CARS EXPECTED

Won't be as Acute at Last Year, However, Belief of Commission.

[By Associated Press.]

Madison—The car shortage that threatened and hampered Wisconsin shippers throughout the fall and winter of 1922 will appear again this year in less acute form, is the opinion of the state railroad commission, which is preparing to meet any emergency that may arise.

While the commission looks for a real car shortage during the heavy shipping months on livestock, potatoes, cabbage, and coal, it does not expect a repetition of the situation of last year when cars could not be obtained to carry Wisconsin stock and produce to market.

Conference Is Called.

In anticipation of possible trouble for cabbage shippers, the railroad commission has called a conference of growers, carriers, and shippers to be held in Milwaukee, Sept. 5. The state department of markets is to co-operate in holding the conference.

A smaller potato crop is expected by the railroad commission to mean a small demand for this product to market. Livestock shipments, in its opinion, will not be seriously held up by such a shortage as existed last year.

Not So Serious.

Heavy coal shipments may take gondola cars from sand and gravel pits, the railroad commission reported.

Up to the present time shippers throughout Wisconsin have been able to obtain needed cars without delay, according to the commission, which says that the situation so far has given few indications of the serious shortage of a year ago.

CHINESE STUDENTS TO HOLD CONVENTION

Madison—Chinese students attending American universities are holding their annual conference, Sept. 4 to 11, bringing together the representatives of that nation now studying in the United States.

The eight-day program includes discussion and consideration of national problems in China, professional meetings, forums for discussion of varied questions, mass meetings, athletic events, business meetings, and sight-seeing.

In welcoming the Chinese delegates, President E. A. Birge of the University of Wisconsin said that "we are glad to greet the representatives of an ancient nation, which is now engaged in readjusting itself to modern conditions of world life."

Your presence as students in the United States is part of this readjustment—an adaptation of the oldest educational system in the world to the new international relations of the twentieth century."

LEAR HELD IDLE BALANCE OF YEAR

Jumping Brewer Kept from Nash Team by Injunction Continuance.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Milwaukee — Fred P. (King) Lear, former second baseman of the Brewers baseball team, cannot play with the Nash team of Kenosha this season. An injunction was granted in circuit court Friday by Judge Oscar M. Fritz continuing the temporary writ obtained by the Milwaukee club in July to prevent Lear from "jumping" to Nash.

Undertaking of $1,000 for possible damage sustained by Lear must be provided by the Milwaukee club as the injunction stands only until trial of the suit.

The court's order does not pass upon the validity of Lear's contract with Milwaukee, which has been attacked by Lear's lawyers, as invalid.

These attracted much attention in the baseball world because of the contract feature.

Under Lear's contract with the Brewers, he was to receive $600 a month or $3,400 for the season. It is said the Nash offer was $4,000.

A FATHER'S WILL

Too often have I seen a father's will become the hardening of his children, and rather than expose you to such a risk I rejoice that I have no fortune to leave you, my dear children.

The father who made this observation in his will was the beloved Philadelphia rabbi, Joseph Krauskopf, who died June 12. Dr. Krauskopf went on to remind his children that they had received a necessary education and home training to equip them to carve for themselves a useful career without the aid of inheritance. He reminds them that from the age of 12 he had been obliged to make his own way, and could not but believe that he was the better for it. It was for his children to take the same joy in accomplishment as he had done.

Here is a wise and beneficent legacy. It is, indeed, all that the normal man should ask. A strong body, a trained mind and an inspiring example of one who has gone before, is ample to all the requirements of life in America. The percentage of successful and worthy sons of rich fathers is so small as to give sufficient weight to Dr. Krauskopf's statement. There is something better than wealth to leave one's children.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

BUYERS FROM BIG AREA VISIT CITY

Wider Zone Represented in Dollar Day Sales Event, Say Merchants.

Dollar day brought not only a much larger volume of business here Thursday, but attracted shoppers from a wider area than any previous Dollar day. This is the unanimous verdict of local merchants representing every line of merchandise.

One merchant commented with considerable enthusiasm concerning the increased number of shoppers from smaller towns throughout southern Wisconsin.

"We have had a good response from the rural districts here, but there was a noticeable increase in the number who came from such places as Port Atkinson, Whitewater and other towns of similar size," said this merchant.

While the greatest rush of the day was during the early morning hours, all merchants reported a brisk business in the afternoon.

Traveling salesmen who arrived in the city during the morning rush hours were unable to account for such metropolitan-like crowds on the streets of a city the size of Janesville, and on learning the cause commented on the fact that the Dollar day was the largest number of Dollar day shoppers for the size of the city that they had ever seen.

Cars in Race

Jump the Road

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Juda—Two small cars left the road Thursday night while engaged in a spectacular race about six miles east of here. Arthur Ladwig, with three others in his car, and William Schwen were the drivers.

Both cars jumped the road while going at a good rate of speed. One hit a telephone pole, breaking it off. Both cars were badly damaged, having the lights broken, spokes cut of the wheels, windshields smashed, tons off and fenders bent. All occupants escaped uninjured.

The cars were on their way to a wiener roast at River View park, Brookfield, given by the young people of the local Evangelical church, at which about 30 were present.

The lessons of the war are plain. Can we carry them on into peace? Can we still act on the principle that there is no sacrifice too great to maintain the right? Shall we continue to advocate and practice thrift and industry? Shall we require unwavering loyalty to our country? These are the foundations of all greatness.
—CALVIN COOLIDGE.

The Lesson of Denmark.

Denmark used to be a great grain growing country. But cheaper wheat came in from the United States and Argentina and the local market was ruined. The Denmark farmer found he could buy wheat and wheat products cheaper than he could raise them. So the farmer went to producing something else. But he did more, he began to know how to market his crops. He began to cultivate his soil intensively. Nothing was wasted. Dairying and poultry raising were added. The intensive method necessitated the cutting of farms into smaller tracts. Then the farmers went into the marketing business. They organized marketing companies and began to own their own dairies, their own banks, egg collecting societies, and all kinds of breeding and developing agencies. Some farmers belonged to at least ten societies of this kind. Here we find the very best examples of collective cooperative marketing. Farmers also buy in quantity and get a second advantage in saving. Thousands of tons of raw material are imported and fed to cattle and hogs, while the product is exported.
"All Denmark," says R. M. Turner, commercial secretary of the British legation in Copenhagen,
"is practically one large agricultural factory."
Of the farms in Denmark 68,000 are of 1 1/2 acres each or less. There are 180,000 of less than 40 acres each. But the 250,000 farmers are represented by 4,000 cooperative companies.
Ninety per cent of the farmers own their own land. Tenants are few and it is the only European country where there are not more tenants on lands than owners.

There is no question at all as to the success of the Danish cooperative movement. It is so far determined that it is not open for argument.
But on the other hand there have crept into Denmark many evils in legislation which have tended to reduce the profits of the farmers. Credit is easy and one result of such a financial situation is the heavy borrowing by farmers. The farms are in most cases mortgaged up to fifty per cent of their value, according to several authorities writing on the subject. There is always this danger in easy credits. The general result of the Danish agricultural movement in the last forty years has been the establishment of a profitable agricultural business based on good methods and proper handling of farm crops.

There is here a solution of the farmers' troubles in America; not in the same manner nor by the same exact methods but in collective action in marketing, in holding and handling crops to protect the market, to stabilize prices to cover production and profit; and to handle for a mutual corporation with several thousand farmer stockholders under the same methods which have made other industrial corporations successful dividend payers.

An Extraordinary Record.

In winning the grand championship for the county of Rock on Holstein bull for the third consecutive year, at the state fair, all records have been broken so far as we can learn. The question was submitted to experts at the Wisconsin state fair, editors of live stock publications and other qualified to speak and they do not remember a similar record. Other winnings in the live stock show, particularly in the Holstein classes, while not as large or as great as some other counties, were remarkable, considering the greatness of the whole exhibit and the weight of competition.
Results certainly demonstrate the value in livestock exhibits, of cooperative work. It was the splendid team effort of the county that has made this Rock county season so far the outstanding marvel of the live stock breeders of Wisconsin and taken the eye of the nation by the culminating performances at the Wisconsin state fair.
Other exhibits of cattle, sheep and hogs at the fair also came in for recognition and made good the slogan which has come to mean more than ever, "Rock County First."

If Nebraska lost its entire wheat crop this year it would only amount to one-eighth of the crop value of the state. There will be 225,000,000 bushels of corn and more than $47,000,000 worth of hay and alfalfa. It does not look necessary for the government to hold a special session of congress to care for Nebraska.

War and the Tenth Commandment.

Love of women, love of land, covetousness of cities and rich plunder, wanting the property of savage tribes and peoples, wanting commercial advantages, wanting power over worlds, ambitious for more slaves to do menial work in mines and fields, religious mania for the establishment of creeds and beliefs on unwilling but weak nations and groups of people, jealousy of women, wanting advantages in territory over which there was question of priority of discovery or occupation, wanting a throne for a degenerate son of a weakened family of rulers, by alleged right of divinity—these are some and most of the causes of

A NEW KING-MAKER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Washington.—When there is a new king there must be, perforce, a new king-maker. With a new president in the White House, it becomes a question of moment as to who put him there.
Ordinarily such an event follows hard on the heels of a year's campaigning for the nomination and the election and it is not so difficult a matter to put one's finger on the political genius who turned the trick.

In the present instance, however, Calvin Coolidge succeeded to the presidency. Instead of attaining it as the result of a campaign, and he did this some three years after his appearance on the stage of national politics. Hence there is more room for debate as to who was the prime factor in his elevation, and as to who is the logical man to have charge of his political fortunes during the more momentous year at hand.

James B. Reynolds was at the head of the Coolidge organization in 1920 and directed the campaign that resulted in the nomination of Mr. Coolidge for vice president. He has, therefore, at least a titular claim to the honor that is being so much discussed.

Mr. Reynolds is either a reformed or a degenerated newspaper man, according to the view that is taken of his evolution from a Boston reporter into a Washington banker and national political figure. When he left Dartmouth in the early 20's, he took up newspaper work at the Hub, and after a brief novitiate there, was made Washington correspondent of his paper. He served three years in that capacity and then he found himself back in Boston where he was wanted in the job of secretary of the republican state committee. There, it must be said, he had valuable contacts with that master craftsman of politics, W. Murray Crane, who was one of the dominant figures in the republican party for years.

A few years later Theodore Roosevelt brought Mr. Reynolds back to Washington and made him one of the assistant secretaries of the treasury, and when the tariff board was created, President Taft made him one of the members. The board job did not last so long. Congress forgot—or intentionally overlooked—an appropriation, and the board was "scurvy venetian."

But the campaign of 1912 was at hand, and Mr.
Reynolds aligned himself with the forces that renominated President Taft and when the republican national committee was reorganized he became the secretary.

Mr. Reynolds continued as secretary of the national organization through the Hughes campaign of 1916 and up until the eve of the 1920 contest.
There was a man up Bay State way then, who had made an enviable reputation as governor, and who was being much discussed as a presidential possibility. Someone was needed who knew the national politics and no one was surprised when Mr. Reynolds left the national committee and was put in charge of the Coolidge headquarters.

It was not in the cards for Mr. Coolidge to be nominated for the presidency that year. Of course no one dreamed the presidential nominee would not survive his first term, and the vice presidency is not so highly regarded by some men who have been candidates for the big prize, but "Jimmie" Reynolds had an idea it would be a good thing for his man to take second place on the ticket.

His idea was to such good effect that the leaders who were controlling the convention acquiesced, and the thing was done.
So far as is known, President Coolidge has not spoken on the subject, but there are those among his close friends who say that if it had not been for Reynolds he would never have been vice president, and of course then he would not now be in the White House, and he would, as a long shot in any book that was being made on presidential prospects.

All this gives Reynolds' friends their grounds for insisting that he is the logical man to direct the Coolidge campaign in the fight now at hand and to become the chairman of the republican national committee in event of the president's nomination. They say the same experience and ability that qualified him for the chairmanship of the Coolidge organization three years ago make him eminently eligible for the 1920 responsibility, and some of them are even brash enough to predict that President Coolidge will so decide.

However that may be, it is not to be gainsaid that there is a deal of interest being manifested in the question by Republican leaders and workers. Senator Moses of New Hampshire was one of the very first to climb on the Coolidge band wagon, and he has been suspected of aspiring to occupy the driver's seat. He, too, was in the 1920 fight as the manager of a losing presidential candidate, General Leonard Wood. It is said that Wood is not likely to be a candidate next year, but if he should be he will have to worry along without a Moses, for the New Hampshire statesman is definitely committed to Coolidge.

William M. Butler, of Massachusetts, and Charles D. Hilles, of New York, are others who have been making possible selections for the new job of king-maker, and Walter P. Brown, of Ohio, is still another. Mr. Brown is said to have been the late President Harding's choice for the national chairmanship next year, but it is scarcely probable that President Coolidge will go so far in the matter of carrying out his predecessor's policies as to be governed thereby in naming his campaign manager.

Former Representative Bascom Slemp, of Virginia, whose appointment as secretary to the president occasioned much political surmise, is not overlooked when the political premium is being discussed, but it is recognized that he will have his hands full in the job to which he has been named. It is more likely that he will serve as liaison officer between the president and the head, or heads of the Coolidge political organization.

Meanwhile John T. Adams, of Iowa, is still national chairman, and he is a factor to be reckoned with in all this forecasting; for he has not permitted the grass to grow under his feet since the momentous change at the White House, and as has been said before, there is still "Jimmie" Reynolds, when all the possibilities have been canvassed.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.
THE TYRANT.
You domineering little type,
Serenely grabbing what you like
And making plain by grunt and shriek
The glittering baubles of gold to cry
Have you conceived the notion that You're rightfully an autocrat?
At one year old, have you begun
To think you rule the moon and sun?
Must I, your father, give to you
My precious watch of gold to cry Culmily say, "That's what it's for."
The times you bang it on the floor?
Because you will, must we obey?
Must I put down by back to play,
Do this or that to suit your whim?
Look here, you chubby, scurrying Till have you know, how'er you yell,
We grown-ups have some rights as well!
Well, well, if you are going to cry
Of course, I'll put the volume by.
And here's my watch for you once more—
Take it and throw it on the floor.
I guess you're right, in every case
A baby always rules the place.

asked us to try and save the situation, but we

Who's Who Today

GIFFORD PINCHOT.
Clifford Pinchot, governor of Pennsylvania, looks large in the news dispatches as a possible breaker of the deadlock between the miners and operators in the threatened strike in the Pennsylvania coal fields. Mr.
Pinchot acts for his state in the effort to settle the anthraxite situation.

As one of the country's most prominent republicans he has been mentioned as one of the possibilities for the presidential candidacy of 1924. His efforts to settle the present controversy will, therefore, be watched with much interest.

A national forestry commissioner under Roosevelt, Mr. Pinchot was a prominent figure in that administration.
He is a graduate of Yale class of '89, and later studied forestry in France, Germany, Switzerland and Austria. On his return to America he took postgraduate work at Yale, Princeton and Michigan Agricultural College.

In 1907 Pinchot inspected the forests of the Philippine Islands and recommended a policy in forest conservation. This was at the time he was at the head of the U. S. forestry work.

Mr. Pinchot was born in Simsbury, Conn., in 1865. He was married in 1914 and is the author of a number of books pertaining to forestry.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO
Aug. 31, 1883.—Miss Grace Clark, of Lockport,
New York, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs.
George McCoy, started for her home this afternoon. She was accompanied by a large number of young ladies and gentlemen.
—An unusually good program was given at Lap-py's hall last night and for the benefit of St.
Mary's Sodality.

THIRTY YEARS AGO
Aug. 31, 1893.—Crystal Springs will be the spot for the big Labor Day picnic. There will be all sorts of games and also dancing, for money prizes.—Milton avenue property owners and others nearby are forming a syndicate having as its object the extension of the city street car lines from St. Mary's avenue north to the city limits.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
Aug. 31, 1903.—Tobacco harvesting has stopped because of the weather, and only a few days of sunshine are needed to make the county crop bumper.—The first of the "W. A. King" series include "Quinty Adams Sawyer," "Peck's Bad Boy," "At Cripple Creek," and "Sky Farm."

TEN YEARS AGO
Aug. 31, 1913.—Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, who will be remembered by many old Janesville residents who used to attend All Souls church, has started a summer colony at Clear Lake for poor children of Chicago and he has visions of making it a big thing.—Between 150 and 200 will be given employment at the canning factory during the season which starts this week.

PRAYER FOR TODAY.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

TAKE A CUE FROM THE CAT.
Mr. T. J. Cat, whose whiskers are now five inches long and whose claws are perhaps not quite so long, was in his childhood very fond of black snakes. Nearly every morning in summer at the shore T. J. would bring home a lively young snake and play with it for an hour or so about the yard. One day a bold and ferocious looking grandfather snake crawled out of the stones about the dock and approached Mr. Cat in a defiant manner. A rash performance, indeed, T. J. paid little attention until the audacious old boy had thrust his head within a foot of the mat where T. J. pretended to moove. Then a lightning thrust of a wickedly armed paw, and poor grandfather's head was cruelly injured. He tried to get back to safety under the stones, but T. J. was unwilling to let him go until he had played with him for an hour or so.
From snakes T. J. turned to squil-rel rats, birds, small and medium sized dogs, and finally neighborhood felines for sport. He had a merry time and everything his own way until he began to pick on the neighbors' cats. It must be a tough neighborhood, T. J.'s, because up to the time when he began bullying members of his own species he was really a sleek and handsome fellow. Now he is a sorry looking specimen indeed.
Some mornings he is unable to drag himself home at all; such has been the fierceness of the battle in the night. Again he elinks home with a large portion of his fine coat missing and frightful wounds to show for the night's campaign.

T. J.'s treatment for these wounds is very simple and untastefully successful. He gives them a lick or two, if they are reasonably accessible; then he applies aseptic, scientific neglect and the open method, just a remarkably intelligently intelligent operation with nature, spelled without a capital N.
Don't emulate T. J. Don't let your wound crawl and under the stone to wait for them to heal. But take a cue from his procedure which is so effective—for cats. It is more difficult for a man to keep his wound under than it is for a cat, because the man years to handle his wound with his fingers or put something on the wound, thus polluting or contaminating the wound surface, planting some germs there. Maybe it is some dirty ointment which conveys the germs to the wound surface; maybe it is some bit of cloth or dressing material which even though premarily sterilized, is itself contaminated with the germs through handling. But usually it is somebody's fingers. One of the most difficult things a doctor has to do when caring for a wound is to keep the patient's own inquisitive fingers from contact with the wound surface. It is remarkable how difficult it is to do this. A cat is infinitely more aseptic in the care of his wounds than a man is. Aseptic means without poison; aseptic care means care to prevent introduction of germy poison, and for more difficult than even the most cleanly layman can imagine.

Let light wounds bleed. Swab the raw surface once with tincture of iodine. Take exquisite pains not to contaminate the surface with anything else.
Clasp on a pad or folded piece of sterile (baked) cheesecloth (gauze) smeared over with sterile vaseline (from a tube if you wish to prevent slicing of the dressing and bandage well, and do not touch the wound or remove the dressing for several days, or until medical care can be obtained.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Terrible Excitement.
We have been terribly excited in our neighborhood about putting up berries, as this is locust year here and they are here in a way that has berries poisoned by the locusts.— Mrs. K. M. J.
Answer: Go ahead and put up the berries. It does beat all how housekeepers tramp up a reason each season for untastefully putting up year sugar is too high; next year jars are scarce; then rubber rings can't be had; then the berries are not so new as the locusts. Yes, we have no home canning today.

I had all my teeth extracted on account of pyorrhea. My complexion is very yellow and I have indigestion and trouble in eating. I have been up and down for a long time. I get up. Do you think false teeth would do me any good?—Mr. M. T. S.
Answer: False teeth are a place stimulating to the gums. They would do you good. How can you expect to maintain good health if you are not eating? It is because the very best artificial dentures you can have made will be a good investment in better health.

A. The Bureau of education says according to their best information a school seems to have been started in Berkeley, Cal., in 1898.

ROMAN ALTAR IS FOUND IN ENGLAND

[By Associated Press.]
London.—Used for years as a jumping block in children's games, a large white square stone three feet high, near Kingston Road, has been identified as a Roman altar, 2,000 years old.

The antiquarian, Doctor W. H.
Kesteven, who made the discovery, says it is like all early Roman altars, and the depression on top shows where the offerings for the gods were placed.
Carved figures, supposed to represent priests, can still be seen on one side.

Unusual.

than he was.
"He is bigger than I ever supposed he could be."
"What do you mean?"
"Notwithstanding his rapid growth, he still wears the same sized hat."

The Riddle of the Spinning Wheel

By M. E. and T. W. HANSHEW
Being an Exploit in the Career of Hamilton Cleek, Detective Copyright, 1922, by Doubleday, Page & Co., and published by arrangement with McClure Newspaper Syndicate of New York City.

Cleek laid a hand upon the Superintendent's arm, and spoke in his most coaxing voice. "Life has piled up before me, dear friend, as you have done before, and as you will have to do again," he said softly. "It isn't that I don't trust you, but I haven't trusted you with life itself before now, and never found you wanting—but it is that at present my theories are in somewhat of a muddle, and it's only keeping my own counsel that's going to help me to disentangle them."

"I know, I know, old chap," returned the Superintendent, casting aside his rancor at this opportune moment. "But I haven't found a friend, with his usual heartiness, 'I'm a slow-thinking old fellow, and somehow your lightning sketches get the better of my patience. But I'll back you to unravel the knot every time. Thing you've come to the end, then?"

"I fancy so. With a little bit of bold guesswork thrown in to make equal measure. That must always be reckoned in the bargain, you know. But I haven't found the person or persons who have murdered Sir Andrew in that cold-blooded and diabolically clever manner, then, my name is on the list. And I know, as much about the methods of sleuth-hounds as my old boot!"

"So saying," he fell to examining the photograph again, and tossing the two pieces of flexible wire up and down in the palm of one hand, and muttering to himself like a lunatic, while Dollops and Mr. Karbonak, who were standing by, looked on in silence, could do nothing more but wonder and look on.

CHAPTER XXVII
What Happened in the Library

It was exactly eleven o'clock, and the various clock in the house were chiming the hour out from every nook and corner of the Castle when Cleek, followed by Dollops and Mr. Karbonak, entered the library. The library and found assembled there all the members of that ill-fated family—as well as those others who had been obliged to stay there over-night at his orders, and with a polite "good morning" and a stiff little bow, took his place in the midst of them and glanced around.

They were a wan, white-faced lot. Lady Paula's black eyes were ringed with violet. Maud Dugan's face was puffed and old-looking in the morning light, as though the night had seen no sleep for her (which was true). Joanna McCull's little round face was pale as ivory, and her eyes looked heavily-lidded, as though she had cried overmuch in the still watches (which was true also). Cynthia Debenham and Catherine Dowd sat with set faces and angry eyes watching him as though dreading of what he might say or do next. Ross Dugan's countenance was as lined as an old man's; Captain Macdonald showed by the flare of nostrils and flash of eye that his temper was still as hot as lava, and that he was not at all improved for the keeping; and little Cyril, who slipped in a moment or two late, with Turkish bringing up the rear, had the look of a boy who was scared half out of his wits. And scared badly he was, too. Trembling hands showed it; trembling lips showed it; and more, Cleek's eyes narrowed down as he glanced at the boy's set face, and he found it hard to give him even so much as a welcoming smile. Like mother like son, he thought, as you make 'em. And untrustworthy, too. He was not so fond of Master Cyril, now that he knew more of him, as he had been at first meeting.

When they were all seated, with P. C. Mackay keeping watch over the door and another standing on the outside of it, Cleek turned to them and let the queer little one-sided smile so indicative of the man travel up his face.

"Well, my friends," said he in his smooth, low-pitched voice, "I promised you something when I saw you again, and I'm here to fulfill that promise. The riddle of Sir Andrew's death is a riddle no longer. If you will have patience for a few short time, I shall explain, a few things to you, and then—"

"You know who killed my husband, then? You know?" you know," bleated out Lady Paula, starting to her feet with white face and hands clasped close against her breast. "You have found out the secret of his murder, Mr. Deland?"

"Yes—and I know who his murderer was," said Cleek, sharply. "Sit down, Mr. Dugan. I beg of you. The door is guarded, as you can see, both outside and in—and perhaps it might be as well if I added caution to care and turned the key in the door—so." Speaking he crossed the room in rapid strides, unlocked the door, and dropped the key into his pocket. "Prevention is better than cure, you know. Yes, Lady Paula, I know who murdered Sir Andrew, and I know how it was done. A dastardly deed at best—an abominable crime upon humanity in retaliation for a family wrong. The old question of a vendetta—though of so recent a date as to be a mere matter of seventeen years back. You have been married that long have you, Mrs. Dugan? You are surprised, I am sure, to find me here, and I confess it, so was I. And when you mix up such other unpleasant ingredients as a woman's ill-timed ambition, a blackmailer, and the green-eyed god, jealousy, you find a very unpleasant mess of pottage indeed."

He spoke in his own way, unruffled by the riddle in that leisurely fashion for which he was famous; but to those over-charged minds and hearts that surrounded him he seemed much like a cat playing with a mouse—and enjoying its fruitless efforts at escape.

"But the murderer—who? who?" asked Maud Dugan in a sudden gasp. "And Dugan in a sudden gasp, as a little child, held for a moment in that still room. "Tell us that, Mr. Deland, I implore you—"

ARE YOU THE WOMAN YOU WERE MEANT TO BE?

Every woman was meant to be healthy, happy and full of life. To the best of her ability, but alas, how few have the health or physical endurance to live up to their ideals! Over-ambitions, many of them develop nervousness, irritability, headache, backaches, irritability, and often more serious ailments which retard their progress in life. Women in this condition should turn to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a root and herb medicine which has been proven to benefit the out of every 100 women who try it. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes you well and strong, and the woman you were meant to be.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 15 and have been questioning for some time whether to go back to school this fall. Last June I failed in two subjects, but I have made one up. But still I cannot enter high school. I am a high school student until I finish my one eighth grade subject. This is very discouraging to me, as I feel that I am too old for a freshman as it is. I will be 16 soon after school starts. Do you think I am too old?

My failing is due to illness during the winter, as I studied and tried to make my grade. I can get work in town, as I am very handy with a needle and do fine sewing for others. I would not have to work, but I could not stand to be called a high school student and a high school graduate. I am also three others who failed, but all boys, and I am older than they. What shall I do?

My parents feel badly about this, as they have had and want me to have a good education, but I am so discouraged I feel that I could not study if I so back.

I was not my fault in the subject that I failed and did not make up. The teacher that failed me had a prejudice against me and told me face to face. But I have my final papers and exam papers to prove my sound standing, but she ignores them and says it is my own fault. I cannot understand why she does this as I had always thought a lot of this teacher. When she turned on me I did not do anything to provoke her.

DISCOURAGED.

Continue with your education even if it means you have to proudly bear the humiliation of failure and being older than the rest. Don't let others see that you feel out of place. Of course you need further education, and when you get into high school I believe you will be very happy there.

Your Physical Manhood Can Be Quickly Revived!

When you overtax your nerve energy and neglect to nourish your system—When you consume more vitality than you replace—You invite a breakdown. You lose the vigor, health and vim, manhood that make life a constant delight. You haven't the strength and energy to go through a hard day's work, over to enjoy evenings with the family.

PULL YOURSELF TOGETHER! For all wear there is repair. Take a good tonic, as your doctor would advise. Build yourself up. Dr. H. S. Thatcher, the noted specialist, perfected a nourishing, strengthening and invigorating tonic that is helping countless numbers win back their ambition and spirit, their vim and vigor, their health, energy and strength. It helps the blood coursing through your veins and revives that delightful feeling that can come only with ruddy, robust health.

TRY THIS TONIC! Take a delicious tablespoonful of Dr. Thatcher's Liver and Blood Syrup after the next few meals. Notice the quick difference in the way you eat, sleep and feel. 100 WAYS TO MAKE MONEY

By BILL WINNER

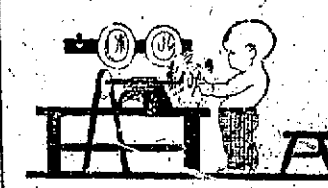

If I Could Clean Hats

HATS, straw and felt, will get dirty. Despite all precautions, they do need cleaning once in a while. The average man doesn't care to bother with this work.

If I could clean hats I'd tell the 100 readers, which the Janesville Gazette has about it. I'd tell them HOW I could clean them. I'd tell them of the service they'd get. I'd give them an idea of the prices and tell them where they could reach me.

In other words, if I could clean hats, I'd advertise that fact in the Want Ads of the Janesville Gazette.

Poor Gas Ought to Show the Same Sign

"UNDER CONSTRUCTION" is right. No truer word could describe the thrown-together make-up of common brand motor fuel that is built up from dreggy refuse, instead of being cleanly refined from the natural gasoline range of rich petroleum.

"USE AT YOUR OWN RISK" Expect no compensation for injury done by the rank, lubrication-destroying drench of kerosene to cylinder walls and piston rings, connecting rod and crankshaft bearings. You alone bear the cost of carbon-pitted valves and over-frequent carbon cleaning. You must stand the results from the bumps and thumps of rickety firing.

Use no such "short-cuts." The smooth route offered by

Wadhams True Gasoline

is the right road to maximum economy and motor safety. Your comfort and your purse are alike safe-guarded by its straight-run untampered goodness.

The paltry saving of a few pennies a gallon is simply a "Detour" message to the motor-wise. You have paid too much for your car to risk its life on anything but genuine, quick-firing, REAL gasoline.

EVERY bowler of Janesville will aid in making the state meet here next January a huge success by lining up with the Janesville Bowling Association. The small attendance at the meeting of Wednesday was discouraging to the officers at a time when all leaders of the Bower city would help mightily by being up and ready for the state meet. A small number of bowlers, only four, but the inspiration of having 1,000 members will be the power that will put the state classic over in a big way. The Janesville Bowling Association is a small, but it is a big thing to have a gathering of bowlers in Janesville. This is not an appeal merely for the bowling game. This is a call of civic patriotism. Janesville is on the map. There isn't a man in the city that wants to see it found wanting.

PAUL EDWARDS, the genial coach who took a little group of boys at Janesville last year and whipped them into one of the best basket machines in the history of southern Wisconsin, is leaving the state. Paul was in town on Wednesday and he was the writer the "Info" that he will teach science at Crane Technical high school in Chicago this year. He has not made any definite arrangement as yet, but there is a possibility that he will be seen assisting in coaching basketball before the season is over.

THANKS to the state swimming meet that will be held here next Monday morning, Janesville is getting a raft of good publicity. Checking over stories on the way to the meet, other publicity that has gone out from here will at least double that. It is some more proof that an event does not have to be a professional one in order to be given prominence outside of its own arena. Rather, the amateur meet with a wide drawing power and broad value has the chance of drawing more attention.

Lection to Pull Big Motorcycle Races Here Sept. 9

SANCTION ALLOWED BY NATIONAL BODY, USING MILE TRACK

The first motorcycle races in southern Wisconsin will be staged here on Sunday, Sept. 9, according to announcement by the American Legion Friday morning.

The mile track at the Janesville fair grounds has been procured. The meet will start at 2:30 p. m.

Sanction has already been procured for the races from the Motorcycle and Allied Trades Association of the United States. This permit will give the events here a national angle. Any records that may be made will be official.

Officers of the local legion have been working for several days on the preliminary arrangements. Milwaukee, Chicago and Madison riders have been promised to appear. The meet will be held on the mile track at the fair grounds.

Madison Men Coming

By cooperation with Dr. E. Griffiths, sporting editor of the Madison Capital Times, a number of Capital City riders are expected to enter. Janesville riders are also wanted. Other publicity that has gone out from here will at least double that.

Entries for Swim Meet Now Reach Total of 46

Entries for the state water meet to be held off Goose Island here on Labor Day morning now total 46 and shoots the excitement to 91. Publicity that has been sent out from Janesville brought an entry Friday morning from Chicago of a Wisconsin lad who is spending a few days down there. He is P. G. Kojan, Milwaukee, a University of Wisconsin student. Kojan says he has never entered a distance swim, but has crossed Lake Michigan and feels he can cover the distance in good time.

Morrow Is Good Entry

Cecilia Morrow, who has entered from Kenosha Elks, is one of the lads to watch in the mile event. Recently, this lad crossed Phantom lake in time that is said to give him a good chance in the big event here.

Entries from out of the state have been received by the local committee, but inasmuch as the meet is limited to Wisconsin residents they were turned away with regret. This situation may be taken up at a meeting of physical directors of Y. M. C. A. S. of the state in their meeting at Lake Geneva next week. The outcome may be the establishment of an interstate tourney.

Ten cities of Wisconsin will be represented when the nation takes the next Monday. Entries now show: Milwaukee, 10; Janesville, 5; Madison, 12; Racine, 4; Kenosha, 4; Beloit, 14; Superior, 1; Watertown, 1; Green Bay, 1; Fond du Lac, 1.

Seniors in Lead

There are 26 seniors and 22 juniors already entered in the several events. These men make 91 event entries as follows:

Mile (open), 18; fancy diving (open), 15; 100-yd. senior dash, 10; 100-yd. senior back stroke, 5; 100-yd. senior breast stroke, 5; 100-yd. junior dash, 12; 50-yd. junior dash, 13; 50-yd. junior breast stroke, 10.

Entries close with A. Bergman, local "A" at Madison Saturday. While there will be plenty of competition in the other events, the mile is attracting the largest amount of attention. At least on the spectators and a finish that will be a thriller is predicted.

What Will Gerber Do? Last year's champion of Racine won the marathon by knocking 13 seconds off the record at Milwaukee, stroking the distance in 24 minutes and 45 seconds. This year, Seniors entered the Milwaukee County mile event but was forced to withdraw because of heavy seas.

Carl Gerber of the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. won the Milwaukee county event last Saturday. His time, however, was 24:30. What he can do in the still waters of the Rock is an interesting conjecture. What Sommer will do under favorable circumstances is pretty well known.

But right here enters John Folk, the one-legged merman, from the Pleasant Valley Swimming school of the Cream City. Folk, defeated by Gerber by three seconds in the last 100 yards last week, promises to give his conqueror and Semme a sharp tussle.

Janesville's leading bet, Herman Graesslin, who was fifth in the state event a year ago, is a quashy to do this season. His daily work has kept him from the water this season, but he is expected to take off nevertheless.

Felix Is Training

"Bill" Felix, winner of the mile event at Janesville last year, in which he defeated Graesslin, is training hard for the big event. He is in the water every day. Franklyn Palati, another local entry, is also working out.

"The water is fine," said Mr. Bergman Friday. "The temperature is just right for the meet."

Preparations are being made to handle a huge crowd. The meet starts at 10 a. m.

Racine Here

on Oct. 20

Racine high school will come here on Saturday, Oct. 20, to play Janesville high on the gridiron, according to a hooking just announced. Coach Cox is predicting another strong team for the Belle City.

The heavier than Janesville, Racine was held to a small score by the Blues over at the lake town last year. The game put up by Janesville on that occasion was one of the best of the year for either city.

The balance of Racine's schedule is: Oct. 6—Milwaukee Argies; Oct. 13—Riverside, Milwaukee; Oct. 20—Janesville at Janesville; Oct. 27—Shaboygan; Nov. 10—Beloit; Nov. 17—Kenosha; Nov. 24—Madison Central at Madison.

Greb Will Try for Wilson Title

New York—Harry Greb of Pittsburgh will endeavor Friday night at the Polo grounds to take the middleweight championship away from Johnny Wilson, in a 15 round match. Wilson having been under official ban for the greater part of his term as middleweight title holder, had few battles since he won the title from Mike O'Dowd in 1920.

Both men claimed to be in perfect condition.

Urbana, Ill.—Oldtime Illinois athletes and other partisans never exactly liked the orange jerseys and stockings in which Bob Zuppke clothed the fighting Illinois two years ago. But there is welcome news for them. Illinois is going back to the blue.

Frank Taberski trying a hard one.

Frank Taberski, undefeated pocket billiard champion of the world, will emerge from retirement to contest for the title next week. The finest contest should have been

WALWORTH COUNTY

MRS. GRANT HARRINGTON.

There was a meeting of the county highway commission and citizens from different parts of the county, at the court house, Wednesday evening. The committee appointed by the Governor will hold a hearing in Elkhorn in the near future to go over the matter and determine the location of the additional mileage. The meeting will be public.

Best from County—The Walworth county stock and swine exhibit at the state fair is pronounced the best ever shown from our county. The exhibitors are well up in the money end of it. FRUITS PRESENT COLORFUL ARRAY

Great Variety Now in Local Market—Canning Is Heavy.

Few weeks will compare with the present and the one or two to follow in brilliant displays of tempting and luscious fruits in grocery markets. Take a walk through the fruit display here; here are seen beautiful yellow peaches, with a bloom on one side, ripe, yellow pears, also with touches of red; deep red apples, green, yellow and red, and purple plums; green watermelon, yellow bananas and lemons; oranges of a beautiful hue of the same color; green, yellow and red grapes, and apples of all shades of reds, greens, oranges and yellows. Grocers are making the most of their wares, and the trade is turning to these great displays, especially to housewives doing and contemplating canning.

Peaches Most Popular
At present, peaches are the most popular of all fruits. The moderate price asked is 25 cents for a good-sized basket of immense peaches, large, sweet and ripe. The canning trade for them is not here yet, as the canning varieties are just ripening.

Cantaloupes are popular now and are increasing in price a few weeks. Prices are 10 to 20 cents, depending on size and quality. Watermelons are moderate at from 20 to 30 cents, mostly of the large variety. These are in good supply, but five cents a pound and are obtainable in any quantity. Trees are bearing well this year, evidently. Malaga grapes are 20 cents a pound. Other fruit listed is as follows:

Apples, best kinds, and a large variety of brands to choose from, even this early in the year, five cents a bushel; 15 cents per dozen; lemons, 45 cents; and bananas, 12 and 14 cents a pound as usual; California pears, 40 cents a bushel. Other fruit listed is as follows:

Vegetable Prices Unchanged
Chief articles in the vegetable market include:
Celery, 10 to 15 cents bunch; beets, carrots and beets, seven cents a bunch; green onions, five cents a bunch; dry onions, four pounds for a quarter; cucumbers, 60 cents per hundred; five cents each; green corn, 15 cents; head lettuce, good, 15 to 25 cents; leaf lettuce, by the bunch, 10 cents; turnips and kohlrabi, four cents a pound; cabbage, five cents; wax beans, 10 cents a pound; green peppers, two and five cents each; dill, bunch, 10 cents; tomatoes, 65 cents per bushel; and potatoes, 40 cents per bushel.

Legs still range around 30 cents a dozen after last week's raise, while butter has a range of about ten cents in different stores and with different brands, 12 to 15 being about the low and high prices.

Two Ways Open in Paying for Sewer and Water

Having received so many calls for information concerning special assessments for the extensive program of sewer and water mains being laid into this summer, City Clerk E. J. Sartell issued an explanatory statement Friday, calling attention to Sept. 4 being the last day for filing election to pay notices with him.

Wherever improvements are being made this year by the laying of sewer and water mains it is absolutely necessary for those who do not want bonds against their property to file a notice in writing on or before Sept. 4 that they do not wish bonds issued against their property but will pay cash for the improvement," said Mr. Sartell.

One does not mean the city wants this money at once," he continued. "I understand all the sewer and water mains will be completed by the middle of October and those who in writing object to pay cash, may have until Nov. 1 without interest. If not paid by then, the tax will go into the tax roll, with interest, for regular collection in January.

"Those who do not file notices in writing will automatically have bonds but against their property and the payments will be made in five installments over a period of 5 years, one of each installment being added to the taxes each year.

"On account of Sept. 3 being labor day, the time will be extended to 5 p. m. Sept. 4. There are quite a number of people who intend to pay cash but do not think it necessary to file the above notice, but I would advise each one to get in touch with this office on or before the above date.

"There are also many inquiries about the assessments. In some places where improvements are being made by the laying of sewer and water mains, the owners of property are assessed at the rate of $1.25 per front foot; but should the cost of this work only come to $1 per foot, that is all they will be charged. We are very anxious to have the property owners understand that we want them to take advantage of calling the office for information or calling the city clerk at his home."

Uniform System of Accounting

Madison—Uniform accounting system prescribed by the state department of markets for use of co-operative associations are being adopted by farmers' organizations generally, the department reports.

R.; Sons of Veterans; Sons of Veterans Auxiliary; and National Daughters of Veterans. Headquarters of the G. A. R., while other hotels will act in a similar capacity for the other societies. Some of the events and programs are: Sunday, opening day, veterans speak in churches, informal receptions and reunions. Monday, registration day, committee meetings and some business. [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Milwaukee. — In a speech at which a community center here was dedicated, former Gov. E. L. RECOGNITION OF MEXICO WILL BE GRANTED BY U. S.

(Continued from Page 1.) That to agree to sign a treaty as a condition of recognition would be to buy recognition while in truth Mexico facts she has established her government and is entitled to recognition in accordance with international practice.

Devised a Formula

This point has been conceded by the American government, though at the same time it is a fact that Mexico's exposition of her own viewpoint on delicate questions at issue was itself convincing evidence to the American authorities that the Obregon administration was dealing with these matters in the true spirit of international co-operation which makes it worthwhile to extend recognition. Neither country, indeed, receded from its oft expressed viewpoints, though a better formula and one that satisfied both was finally devised to meet the situation.

Inform Europe

The delay of a few days in extending recognition is largely due to a desire on the part of the United States government to inform the powers of Europe and the world generally of the details of the conversations that have been taking place between the American commissioners at Mexico City and the Mexican government. The policy followed there is of vital interest to foreign governments, as they will no doubt ask for a similar treatment in the satisfaction of their claims. The United States has always been looked upon by European and Asiatic powers as the nearest neighbor and friend of Mexico, and foreign governments have hesitated to take any step in the way of recognition before the United States indicated that it would be desirable for them to do so. Recognition by the United States, therefore, means recognition by the governments of the whole world. There may be a few exceptions where special questions are at issue but the expectation here is that the Obregon government will stand before the world as a recognized government within a few weeks.

Famous Article 27

As for American business interests which have been anxious to clear up the ambiguities of the famous Article 27 of the Mexican constitution, which in its first application reached back and in effect confiscated property duly acquired before the constitution was adopted, the machinery for adjustment of such disputes has been set up in one of the two claims conventions. Already the supreme court of Mexico has ruled upon the most points, so that the tribunal has a guide in the decisions of the courts. It is all a matter of good faith, however, and the willingness of the Mexicans to accept the principle of arbitration whereby the claims tribunal with its umpire from a neutral country decides these controversies, made a profound impression on the American government.

This in itself was considered tangible evidence of the capacity of the Mexican government to discharge international obligations. On the whole, both President Obregon and President Coolidge are known to be satisfied with the arrangements and the entire atmosphere surrounding the Mexican question is surcharged with more optimism and hope than it has been since the fateful days of 1910 when the Diaz government began to totter.
